

The Other Side

By I. J. Parker

To the Editor

Last week Mr. Ashelman took me to task for by-passing the regular GCS channels. It seems I discussed GCS operations in the Cooperator. Evidently Mr. Ashelman doesn't like GCS affairs discussed in channels of communication over which he has no control.

The truth of the matter is that my experience with the channels he prescribes convinced me that I would be wasting my time. Several months after I moved into Greenbelt I spoke to Mr. Ashelman about the way skim milk was being sold by GCS. I pointed out that GCS was getting 35 cents a pound when the wholesale price was 16½ cents. I told him that I was buying it at the wholesale price and that I thought the GCS price was excessive. He passed it off by saying that in any case there wouldn't be much of a demand—"you are an unusual consumer." That, and another suggestion that was straddled, gave me the feeling that Mr. Ashelman had high regard for the grooves which the hucksters had worked out for him. Furthermore, I learned that Greenbelt is full of people who had used the channels he recommended to no avail. An isolated consumer can easily be shrugged off. Greenbelt is full of people who, as isolated individuals, took an active interest in GCS only to find their interest impugned in public or ignored in private.

An isolated individual appealing to the board on a disagreement with management really used to have a job on his hands. At a membership meeting it is fruitless to even bring up a matter unless there has been a full discussion before the meeting. In the future I propose to do the following:

1) Use the GCS channels where I feel matters have a fair chance of being settled properly (example: Price Checking Committee).

2) Where I would be treated as "an unusual consumer" (i.e. a crank) I propose to communicate directly to Greenbelters through my column. If Greenbelters see it my way, it is up to them to come to meetings and let their wishes be known.

As far as having a personal ax to grind, I must admit that I come under that heading. My interest in Co-ops goes back to the middle thirties when the promises of consumer cooperation looked pretty good. As I see it, if there is to be any demonstration of how Co-ops can pay off on those premises, it will have to come from places such as Greenbelt. Most of the Co-ops on the Eastern Seaboard are too preoccupied with just surviving to be able to do any trail blazing for consumer cooperation. Perhaps Mr. Ashelman may be content to operate GCS like a nice private little enterprise. He can grind his personal ax. Surely he doesn't begrudge me the privilege of differing. I dare say that nothing I have said in my column about GCS is new to Mr. Ashelman. He has probably heard all of it and more from individual members in private. A surprisingly large number of old-Greenbelt residents come up to me and say "you have expressed my thoughts exactly."

Mr. Ashelman boasts that GCS Drug prices "are in line with the large drug chain in the area." But surely an alert consumer can do better than buy at that chain. Why take a relatively poor source as a yardstick? I never mentioned the chain. Does Mr. Ashelman charge that the five Greenbelters I interviewed were talking through their hats? I assure you they were responsible people. Or does Mr. Ashelman think I invented the interviews?

Mr. Ashelman accuses me of passing as an expert in the garage business. I did no such thing. One doesn't have to be an expert to see that GCS management is just skimming the cream of the repair business in Greenbelt. Mr. Ashelman avoids the main theme of the article on the garage, namely, that the garage was not making the most out of the space available. Instead he chose to misrepresent me as implying that the "GI trainees are not able to do good work". Again, I did no such thing.

As to work on generators or starters, does Mr. Ashelman mean that whenever a generator or starter doesn't operate, it has to be rebuilt? Does he deny that quite often what is merely needed is a small part or a tiny operation which can be provided at a fraction of the cost of a rebuilt job?

If what I wrote in my column were "personal grievances" (which they aren't) there are many Greenbelters who share them with me. That must have been evident to Mr. Ashelman at the last membership meeting.

Negotiations To Be Resumed On Sale Of Greenbelt to Residents

Mike Salzman, president of the Greenbelt Veterans Housing Corporation, has received word from John Taylor Egan, Commissioner for Public Housing Administration, that the housing agency is ready to "resume negotiations" for the sale of Greenbelt.

Salzman has informed the Cooperator that an executive meeting of GVHC will be held tonight to plan a board meeting next Wednesday. It is expected that the board will announce a general membership meeting for a near future date.

The sale of Greenbelt was withdrawn for a period of time because of the Korean war. It was anticipated by government officials that Greenbelt property could be used for dispersal and re-location of federal buildings. In recent months the withdrawal has been the subject of congressional investigation. The decision to re-open negotiations is considered by authoritative sources to be the result of the investigations, which were headed by Senator Paul Douglas (Ill.)

It is expected that the same portion of Greenbelt offered for sale by public advertisement June 8, 1950, will be the area to be sold.

Legion Post Honors Memory of Braden

IN MEMORIAM

On Sunday afternoon at the Ives Funeral Home about 50 Legionnaires, including Commander Riley, attended the services of Post 136, Greenbelt American Legion, in honor of Roy S. Braden. The following resolution was passed at the meeting of the Post May 3, 1951, and sent to his widow.

With profound sorrow, the members of Greenbelt Post No. 136 record the death of its Charter Member, Comrade Roy S. Braden. In his death we have lost a forceful leader and teacher, a wise counselor, a kindly man and a dear friend. The Post desires to express its deep appreciation of these qualities and enter upon its minutes this testimony to the memory of one whom this community and the nation can ill afford to lose.

Comrade Braden was ever ready to advance the ideals of the American Legion by his wise counsel and enthusiasm for its aims, as well as by material contributions. His high conception of the purpose of the American Legion in enlightening and safeguarding a democratic community was felt not only in this city but, through his many associations with the leaders of other communities, became a far-reaching influence.

His magnetic personality, his rare gift of humorous expression, his wisdom acquired through wide experience, and his love of God made him a dominant figure among his fellow men. His loss is a personal loss to all of us.

May we extend to you and your family an expression of heartfelt sympathy in the great loss that you, in common with the community, have suffered through his death.

Very sincerely yours,
Frank H. Riley, Commander

GCS Board, Cooperator Staff Meet; Discuss Ads, "Dollars And Sense"

By Doris A. Mednick

Greenbelt Consumer Services and Cooperator relations was the subject of a heated discussion at the board of directors meeting last Friday night. It culminated the tensions that had been developing with both groups as a result of critical articles appearing in the Cooperator and decreased advertising on the part of GCS in the local newspaper.

Sam Ashelman, general manager, said that the "Dollars and Sense" column was written from personal experiences and not always accurate or substantiated by facts. Harry Zubkoff and Isadore Parker, members of the newspaper staff, maintained that a newspaper's responsibility is to present criticism in an attempt to improve the cooperative.

Present to refute charges made by Morris Solomon in his "Dollars and Sense" column were Cy Pearson, present manager of the Drug store, Al Ellerin, former manager, and Ed Burgoon, manager of the garage operations. Ashelman reiterated the three channels set up through which criticism of operations should come as stated in his letter of last week to the editor. Editor Zubkoff "dissected" Ashelman's letter in the light of the same inaccuracies and insinuations of which the paper stands accused. He said that, from personal experience the channels were ineffective. (They are: contact of management by letter or personally, board meetings and membership meetings.) Milton Kramer, board member, said that the editor hadn't proved his point at all, except for one issue that he raised, namely, See MEET page 3

City Council Denounces Vandalism; Bus Service May Be Discontinued

Councilman Steve Comings denounced the increasing vandalism in Greenbelt and recommended stronger enforcement of the ordinances prohibiting destruction of city property, at Monday night's council meeting. He blamed the lack of parental responsibility for the destructiveness of local children and suggested that parents be made aware of the problem.

It was disclosed that the gate at Indian Springs has been broken so often that it was necessary to fell trees to prevent illegal use of the area. A "home plate" was re-installed three times in one day by maintenance men because of vandals in the ball field; a drinking fountain has been in a constant state of disrepair because of abuse, notwithstanding a sign placed near it stating the penalty for mistreatment.

Terming the incidents "provoking", Comings declared it was regrettable that the activities of a few are spoiling things for all. He cited the great expense in maintaining the recreation areas in the past and expressed the hope that it will not go to waste through vandalism.

Comings' remarks followed a plea by resident George Strickland for improvement of the tennis court surface and equipment. City Manager Charles McDonald stated he will soon institute a plan whereby tennis enthusiasts will be required to get the key to the tennis courts from the police station. The key-custodian will be responsible for the court while in use. The tennis court will be locked at all other times.

Light Fixtures Denied

An ordinance to transfer funds from surplus was defeated by Councilman Comings' lone dissenting vote. The funds were to provide new lighting fixtures for the library and the city administration offices. The ordinance was presented for a first and second reading under a suspension of the rules and the necessary four "yes" votes were not forthcoming. (Mayor Elizabeth Harrington was absent because of illness.) Although in favor of the library lighting, Comings declared he wished the proposed expenditure to be announced to the public before final consideration.

Braden Honored

A resolution to erect a suitable plaque at Braden Field in memory of the late Roy Braden was passed by the council. It changes the name of the area to Braden Memorial Field. Councilman Comings announced that many citizens are anxious to erect a suitable memorial, preferably a flag-pole, in Braden's honor. It was suggested that the plaque be placed on the flag-pole; money-raising activities for the memorial will soon begin.

New swimming-pool rates for the summer season were approved and an appropriation of $350 for fireworks on the Fourth of July was passed.

Robert Bonham, local resident, congratulated the council on its activities in behalf of the local volunteer rescue squad. He disclosed that $1500 has already been raised in its latest campaign and more was anticipated.

Parking Problem

W. Earl Thomas, representing the Community Church, discussed with council the possibilities of providing a parking area near the church building. He was informed the city was prohibited from using funds for this purpose under terms of the PHA-Greenbelt budget contract. Thomas declared that he only wanted to "request that council take the problem under consideration." It will be considered at a future date, at the suggestion of Steve Comings.

Bus Service

Acting Mayor Frank Lastner informed the council that word has come from the president of Oriole Bus Lines that lack of patronage may soon cause Oriole to discontinue its service. McDonald disclosed that conferences with PHA regarding the transportation situation have been in progress, and that PHA is profoundly concerned. A plan to use three station-wagons is being explored; it would provide minimum loss and may suit local needs. Lastner reminded citizens present that council is aware of the deteriorating transit situation and is working hard to solve it.

Scout Oring Present

Present at the meeting was Stuart Oring, local Boy Scout, who is studying the city government in preparation for a scout badge. His presence and remarks were included in the official minutes of the meeting. Lastner stated that the council welcomed other citizens and junior citizens to learn the functions of the municipality.

Tempo Dancers Plan Annual Recital May 26

The annual recital of the Tempo School of Dance will be held on Saturday, May 26 at 8 p.m. in the Center school auditorium. Mrs. William Baxter, president of the sponsoring organization, the Tempo Club, announces that proceeds from the recital will be given to the Youth Center. Youth Center or Drop-Inn members as well as regular dance students will appear. See RECITAL page 2

Resident Takes Prize

One hundred dollars went to Mrs. Curtiss Barker, 1-A Crescent, as one of the hundred third-prize winners in the Lipton Soup contest on May 11.

Contestants were required to complete a 5-line jingle about the product. When told of her good fortune, Mrs. Barker exclaimed, "It will come in handy!"

Examination Time

EDITORIAL

Rumors have been going around Greenbelt this past week to the effect that the Cooperator is in difficulty. This is to assure our readers that the rumors are perfectly true.

However, we do not feel that this is the time to appeal to our friends and neighbors for support—not in a financial sense, anyhow. We do, nevertheless, want the community's help in an important crisis.

The Cooperator is going through a period of self-examination. We have agreed to sit down with ourselves and determine whether the course we have followed in past weeks is a proper one. We want, and will welcome, the opinions of Greenbelt's Citizens to help us in this determination.

We can all start at the same point by looking at the function of the Cooperator in Greenbelt. The newspaper is as old as the community. The material carried in its pages has been about, and by, residents of the city. The Cooperator has watched and reported the growth of Greenbelt from an isolated housing project to a sizeable city, and it too has had its growing pains. We have issued the paper every week since 1937, distributed it free of charge to the entire community, and have done it entirely through the labor and talent of devoted volunteer workers. Nobody, we say on the Cooperator staff, gets paid except the printer and the delivery boys.

We of the Cooperator are members of other community groups. We are cooperators; our association is a true producer cooperative. Our duty, as we see it, is to inform the people of our community as best we can about what goes on around them. Our work is the work of communication.

Where communication fails, ignorance takes its place, and brings with it apathy, misunderstanding, and mistrust. Where there is a means of communication, we believe it should be used. All newspapers print things that people would rather not have happen—disappointments, disasters, deaths—but that is what newspapers are for. Whether or not we like what happens it is our business to let the community in on it.

For doing our job, we are accused of irresponsibility, and of keeping citizens from taking on other jobs of responsibility—we who have this great responsibility to the community and have done our best to carry it out.

More important, we are accused of "bias" and "prejudice," of refusing to state both sides of an issue. Newspapers are "biased" depending on who runs them. Belonging to the staff of the Cooperator is a privilege available to anyone in the community who wants it, and is willing to work for it. Many citizens are not willing to sacrifice the time and energy required to keep the paper going. It logically follows that those of us who are willing must certainly be "biased"—in favor of cooperatives and cooperative principles. In spite of our "bias," we have felt it our duty as a newspaper to publish criticism of cooperatives, our own as well as others. We welcome the expression of opinion on both sides of any question. We have never refused to publish any communication to the paper which was in the bounds of good taste. If the paper had carried only one side of a story, it was because the other side felt it "unwise to get into idle controversy." No communication, no information, no progress.

Other newspapers, the large ones, can depend for their support on the backing of large chains and private fortunes. Small community newspapers depend on the community. Here in Greenbelt as probably nowhere else the newspaper depends for its existence on its community. We believe we have served that community long and well. We intend to continue serving it to the best of our ability. If the community decides that there is no longer a need and a reason for our service, we shall cease to exist as a newspaper.

We are depending in the true cooperative spirit on the voice of the community to help our thinking in this crisis, and to aid us to an answer.

You are the community. What do you think?

Harris J. Winkelstein, 7-G Laurel Hill, passed the Maryland bar examinations. He will be graduated from the University of Maryland School of Law in June.

WONDERFUL

I think the Cooperator is wonderful! . . . as witness this little drama:

A lost, new Bulova Watch . . . lying forlorn on Hillside Road, its fate ??? to be crushed to pieces, by an unknowing and not unkind motorist . . . ???

A distraught working mother, who had lost it while escorting her young daughter to Greenbelt Child Care Center (14 Parkway Road, you know, and a wonderful place, for children—there, we got a free ad in!)

An innocent 4-year-old, walking with her mother down the road, a few minutes after the separation of the owner and watch . . . and just aching to return it to its owner.

Well . . . the watch got back! The 4-year-old is Cheryl Meier. Her mother and father and 8-year-old sister, Beverly, are new residents of Greenbelt, living at 12-H Hillside Road. Mrs. Meier, who does not have a phone as yet, drove over to the Drug Store on two occasions but was unable to reach the party by phone.

And how did she locate the phone number of the watch's woeful loser? Through a LOST AD in the columns of the Cooperator. And this family searched the telephone book, until the telephone number was matched with the street address. It was a long search, for the name began with V. And so the watch was returned in person by the Meier family.

We think both the Cooperator, and the Meier family are pretty wonderful! We don't think it could have happened anywhere but in Greenbelt.

A Greenbelt Resident.

Letters To The Editor

PORTION

I hear that discontinuing the Cooperator is under consideration and I feel that would be unfortunate. I especially feel it would be unfortunate if discontinuance became a reality without a concerted effort to breathe new financial life into the paper. I refer specifically to the financial operating policy followed by the paper.

As a free paper the advertisers pay the entire operating costs. I understand the staff does not even receive baby-sitting expenses compensation. If we citizens who want the paper were to pay even less than the major portion of the actual costs of operation the financial pressure should be relieved.

With relief of the financial pressure the staff would be relieved of certain tensions now present regarding the sale of advertising. This relief would permit the staff to exert more effort to keep the paper the sort of medium all citizens would want to support.

Since the community and the paper in particular has no rich uncle, I am confident a goodly portion of our citizens will be willing to pay at least a portion of the cost of their weekly copies. My subscription will be ready as soon as you decide what your rate will be.

Henry R. Walter

PETITION

We young mothers received a rather unpleasant Mother's Day "token" this past week in the form of a notice forbidding the use of outdoor clothes lines which are so necessary for the assurance of health of young babies. In the words of Dr. Benjamin Spock, noted authority in pediatrics: "Sunshine is a potent destroyer of bacteria. There will be less chance of rash if you can hang diapers and other things wet by urine (nighties, shirts, sheets, pads, waterproof sheeting, waterproof pants) in the sun to dry." In the best interest of our babies (averaging three or four to each unit of six) I am appealing to the administrators of our community. It remains, too, that there are not adequate facilities in the basements for such units.

However, we have found, as a result of a survey made by petition that the majority of others (childless couples) prefer to dry their clothes in the sunshine, also.

Our retiring community manager agrees that the appearance is the leading issue in the disagreement, pointing out that several had applauded the notice. In our survey among the apartments themselves, not one person objected strenuously to the appearance. We must draw the conclusion then that complaints come from elsewhere other than the apartments, possibly non-residents of Greenbelt. Why should not the occupants of the apartments have voice in what concerns them? We usually consider that the democratic way, don't we?

We have asked that the clause restricting use of outdoor clotheslines be removed from the lease with the hope that we may enjoy sharing the privileges with the rest of the project. With the backing of the huge majority of apartment dwellers some pressure may be brought to bear on those less sympathetic.

Mrs. M. Dogle and
Mrs. V. Ely

NUISANCE

We consider the rule against hanging out washing as arbitrary. For reasons which any occupant of apartments can supply, it places us under great inconvenience and nuisance and conflicts with the other residents.

We signed a petition against it tonight. If those who circulated it are short-handed, one of us will gladly devote an evening to the job.

Yours truly,

Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Ferguson
P.S. You are to be commended for giving publicity to criticism of GCS.

what happens to complaints from members and how are they handled. Ashelman said they were brought to his attention and he answered them personally, checking with various managers to ascertain the facts. Zuokoff said that he had dropped 14 forms into the suggestion boxes and has never received an acknowledgement or answer. A visitor present said he had never received any answers to his complaints. Mrs. Ruth Taylor, secretary to the general manager, said that the office had not received them.

Mrs. Opie Stage said that the write-up of her reaction to a board discussion of a previous meeting had been erroneously reported. Several board members agreed with her, while others felt the description was justified. It was the reporter's contention that ten different people covering the same meeting would have ten different views.

Bob Volckhausen said that reliable newspapers are guilty of incorrect statements and exaggerations. He added that a more favorable solution could be worked out if the board could select a reporter more sympathetic to the board.

The discussion turned to the cut in advertising on the part of GCS as a result of the critical attitude of the Cooperator. Mr. Ashelman said that individual managers determine the advertising budgets and they did not feel the Cooperator was an effective advertising medium particularly because of the negative effects the criticism was creating. Only upon board instruction, would he suggest that the managers use the Cooperator. Henry Walter said that the paper had been warped and distorted in their presentation of the news and their policy followed a destructive course. He also said that store managers were "only human" if they cut their advertising in the face of critical attacks.

Board member, Cal Winegarden said that if the advertising had been cut because of Cooperator criticism, he felt it was "reprehensible and not in accordance with ethics fostering the continuation of a free press.

A motion was made by Martin Bickford that the general manager and editor meet in conference and attempt to work out a solution favorable to both sides. This met with vehement protest from several members. Because of the lateness of the hour, the motion was tabled and a substitute motion submitted that the matter of GCS-Cooperator relations be referred to the executive committee.

Swimming Pool Open On Decoration Day

The Greenbelt swimming pool will open on Decoration Day, May 30, City-manager Charles McDonald announced this week. The painting of the pool is now complete, and rest rooms, shower equipment and shower rooms are being renovated. Additional space for sunbathers and children will be available around the children's pool. The possibility of filling the additional space with sand is being explored.

Registration for classes in swimming instruction is now being accepted. Classes will be held in the morning for children, and the registration fee is one dollar, which includes admission charges. There will be ten lessons, or more, depending on the size of the classes.

Evening Guild Elects Officers

The Community Church Evening Guild elected officers for the coming year on May 14. New officers are: president, Maravene Clay; vice-president - program, Elsa Jorgenson; vice-president - ways and means, Jesse Martin; secretary, Gloria Atherholt; treasurer, Helen Frady; corresponding secretary, Ruth Birdseye.

The Board of Deacons requests that information about persons who are ill and hospitalized be given to Phyllis Bingham, 51-K Ridge (phone 6061) or the minister. Anyone wishing to have memorial flowers on the church altar should contact Clarence Anders, 10-N Plateau (phone 7303).

The Board of Deacons announces a reception for all new members of Community Church for the past year. This will be held on Sunday evening, May 27, in the church basement.

Drama Group Repeat Ghosts Has Party

The older group of the Dramatic Club, a Recreation Department activity, gave a repeat performance of their play "The Ghosts that Giggled" for the children of St. Hugh's School May 9 in their auditorium. The first enactment of the play was for North End School pupils April 27. In the cast were Joan Haslinger, Mary Moroney, Dana Perlzweig, Susan Solet, Mary Catherine Root, Tommy Iveson and Alex Vella. Additional features were poems by Susan Solet and Dana Perlzweig.

At their regular meeting last week all active members were invited to a Spring Party. Games were played and refreshments served. All interested boys and girls in 4th, 5th and 6th grades should contact Mrs. Vella at 2591.

Nursery Mothers Plan Election; Meet Tonight

Election of officers for the coming year will be the first order of business at the regular membership meeting of the Greenbelt Co-operative Nursery School on Thursday, May 16 at 8:30 p.m. The meeting will be held in the Home Economics Room of the Center School.

All nursery mothers are urged to attend. An invitation is extended to anyone interested in the coming term of the nursery school.
